Overview

As Group Leader of Ulmer & Berne's Construction Litigation Practice Group, Fritz brings more than 30 years of litigation experience and the knowledge of a degreed engineer to his much-honored practice representing parties in construction, environmental, product liability, and toxic tort litigation.

Recognized by Chambers USA as one of Ohio's leading commercial litigators and given Martindale-Hubbell's® highest ranking (AV Preeminent), Fritz is consistently acknowledged for his excellence in construction and product liability litigation. Since 2009, he has been named annually to The Best Lawyers in America's list of top lawyers in those fields, and was named Best Lawyers 2019 Construction Law "Lawyer of the Year" in Cincinnati. American Lawyer Media also named him a top-rated lawyer in construction law, for his representation of both plaintiffs and defendants across a wide range of construction-related disputes, including those involving claims of defective construction, defective design, fraud, and negligence, as well as Fair Housing Act cases.

Fritz has substantial experience in environmental litigation, toxic tort litigation, and the defense and prosecution of personal injury claims, including his work securing the largest known, single victim, personal injury settlement in the history of Kentucky or Ohio for a plaintiff who suffered burns from a spontaneous explosion of pool chemicals.

Outside the courtroom, Fritz is the proud father of five children, and has trained for and participated in over 20 triathlons.

Experience

Construction Cases

- Representing a Florida-based national engineering firm in the allegedly defective design of a roadway, retaining wall, and new bridge over the Ohio River in a $131 million project.
- Representing a New York-based national engineering/architectural firm in litigation involving the adequacy of the design of "scour protection" around bridge piers in a river stream that was altered by the upstream removal of a dam. The bridge settled, with alleged damages in excess of $12 million.
- Representing a California-based designer of a dehumidification system for a marijuana "grow facility" in Denver, Colorado, with alleged damages of over $3 million.
- Representing a design/builder of food processing design in construction projects throughout the United States, with projects ranging from $2 million to $10 million.
- Representing an oil and gas production company in a fatality caused by the allegedly deficient design and construction of a fracking facility, where the victim allegedly burned alive.
- Representing an architect and civil engineering firm for a design issue in an ADA case.

- Representing a condominium developer in a defective construction case.
- Representing a civil engineering firm in a landslide case involving the damage/destruction of six homes.
- Representing a general contractor in claims of defective construction of a Florida hospital.
- Representing a national home builder in the fatal collapse of a 25-foot deep trench during construction.
- Representing a large solar company in various large-scale solar installations across the United States.
- Represented an architectural firm in the failed construction of a mixed-use, 20-story structure, which allegedly caused over $75 million in damages.
- Represented an architect and structural engineer in the $30 million collapse of an existing, in-use, four-story, 100-year-old school building allegedly caused by negligent plans and designs of new, adjacent construction.
- Represented the owner of a 10-story, $15 million hotel with defectively installed EIFS panel joints, which caused the Health Department to close the hotel for almost a year because of moisture and mold contamination.
- Represented a contractor in a $6 million hotel rehab lawsuit.
- Represented an architectural firm in a $6 million claim for unrepairable ice damage to the internal workings of 32 rooftop units in a geothermal HVAC design.
- Represented a major state university in a suit against a contractor for deficient construction, which caused damages in excess of $5 million.
- Represented a general contractor against allegations of defective construction of a $4.2 million, eight-story, Florida home, whose construction allowed water and mold to so infiltrate the structure that it was no longer inhabitable. This matter was resolved in pre-suit mediation (that we initiated) involving the owner, the designer, and relevant subcontractors, with the general contractor recovering 90% of the cost to repair.
- Represented an engineering company in the alleged negligent design of a glass manufacturing facility bag house, which caused over $3 million in damages.
- Represented a structural engineer in a $2.5 million claim for deficient design of 12-story hospital building.
- Represented building owners in a $2.2 million claim against a general contractor for the defective construction of a $4.2 million medical office building.
- Represented an architect in the allegedly defective construction of a $2.2 million home by facilitating suit against the home builder and not the architect.
- Represented the nation's largest specialty concrete company in a $2 million arbitration case involving the construction of a steel manufacturing plant in a southern state.
- Represented a greenhouse designer and builder against a $2 million claim, which alleged that a negligent design caused five acres of greenhouses to collapse under snow load.
- Represented an engineering firm against a $2 million claim for the allegedly defective design of a data center's cooling system.

- Represented a subcontractor in a $2 million claim of defective window and wall installation.
- Represented an Ohio architectural firm and its sub-consulting structural engineer, regarding allegedly defective structural engineering design “discovered” by the owner’s consultant during the construction of a $40 million high school. The claim exceeded $1.5 million.
- Represented a civil engineer against allegations of negligently causing two landslides and over $1 million in damages.
- Obtained summary judgment for the nation’s largest specialty concrete company in a multimillion dollar Fair Housing Act case, succeeding on appeal in the 6th Circuit.
- Secured summary judgment for an architectural firm against allegations of defective design of an outdoor athletic facility.
- Represented an architectural firm in the alleged negligent design of a five-story parking structure.
- Secured summary judgment for an architect in a negligent design of school building claim, which allegedly allowed pervasive water intrusion and mold contamination.
- Represented a number of sureties in bond claim litigation in numerous actions across Ohio.

Product Liability Cases

- Representing two national flavoring companies in over 20 lawsuits that relate to claims of lung damage allegedly caused by the presence of the chemical diacetyl in food flavorings provided by the defendant companies.
- Representing a Fortune 50, national defense contractor as the plaintiff in a $49 million claim of defective design/construction of mobile communications shelters sold to a foreign government for military use.
- Representing a company who purchased allegedly defective “roof” fabric for installation in over 100 acres of greenhouse agricultural facilities.
- Represented a train car manufacturer in a benzene leak, which caused over $60 million in property damage and lost profits of $8 million due to the closing of an adjacent loading terminal.
- Represented a truck manufacturer in a $3 million explosion case.
- Sued a Finland-based manufacturer of a large, industrial sheet metal, automated handling and cutting machine for defective design and fraud, generating a settlement in excess of the $1 million original cost of the machine after five years of use.
- Represented a contractor in two separate suits involving fatalities caused by exploding tractor wheel assemblies. Secured summary judgment in one case that was affirmed on appeal.

Catastrophic Loss Cases

- Representing an employer in a fatality caused by an employee being crushed under a 50,000-pound steel coil that fell from an overhead crane.
