

We Are Ulmer.

We provide big firm competency and service but with Midwestern values. This means we are doing cutting edge, complex work on a national basis, but retain the work ethic, rates, and user friendly attitudes of the Midwest. We believe our value proposition is a genuine competitive advantage because we deliver value for the dollar and exceed client expectations.

100+ years of putting our clients

1st

160 attorneys along with 150 other professionals across 5 offices.

Only 4 Managing Partners in our storied history. That kind of stability requires leaders who know how to innovate and evolve with the times.

We Are Culture

Our culture was born from our devotion to client service. Our teams have can-do attitudes. We are approachable and relatable. We have straightforward Midwestern values, we speak directly and we're not self-important. While we're devoted to working hard for our clients and we pay attention to statistics, we don't operate our firm like a factory; we understand and promote the many non-statistical contributions made by our professionals and appreciate the necessity of work-life balance for all members of our firm – attorneys and staff alike.

Our culture emphasizes teamwork, including across offices and practice groups. Internal competition is discouraged and diversity is embraced. Before anyone new is hired, we strive to provide ample opportunity to all partners (and other attorneys who may be working with or for the new hire) to meet and greet and weigh in on the hire. We do not want to hire anyone who would hurt the team chemistry we have. We believe Ulmer is a really great place to work for attorneys and non-attorneys and are determined to do everything in our power to keep it that way.

We Are Growing

We are only as good as our talent. That's why we're always looking for talented, motivated attorneys who fit our vision and culture. This year, our search brought us:

We Are For You

We are also looking to add self-sustaining laterals and lift out situations in all offices. We offer a great opportunity for qualified candidates because:

- 1 Our supportive culture and bench strength in many practice areas provides a great platform for growth for a candidate on the upswing;
- 2 The candidate will have increased leadership opportunities; and
- 3 Many candidates in this position will be able to receive credit at our firm for clients who may have been allocated to another attorney no longer responsible for the client at his or her current firm.

We Are Honored

We prefer to have our clients take the spotlight but when you're fortunate enough to have a talented and dedicated team as we do, the accolades naturally follow.
